

Gamelite is an Italian gaming community born in 2011 and created with an ad-hoc structure to provide users with more services and a smoother usability.

Our website is committed to providing visitors with a 360 degrees view of the videogames world. Our site includes both several genres and platforms, in order to try to offer our users the broadest perspective as possible.

Videogames are a passion that unites all of the members of the Gamelite staff. This is the passion which binds us and every user. Our team is made up of different people: some members have specific skills in journalism, while others are specialized in computer science. All of the differences within our team give us the opportunity to consider many points of view, in order to improve our work.

Gamelite has contacts with several publishers: Activision, 2K, Bandai Namco, Square Enix, Paradox, Ubisoft and Sony.

